TO THE EDITOR THE TOWN CRIER

To the Editor:

Sharing honors for the "meanest man in town" is the woman who stole a prize plant on exhibit at the Carmel Valley Flower Show on May 1. Actually there were two plants, both rare specimens, in a large, dark blue ceramic pot. One was a crested pachyphytum (succulent) of unusual growth habit; the other an exceptionally large "peanut cactus" loaded with bright red blooms. They had grown for over seven years in the container and were the owner's special pride. Just before the public was excluded (during the judging) the morning of the show, a woman had said to a member of the committee, "Is that for sale? I must have it!" She was told it was on exhibit only and not for sale. At 1:00 p.m. the doors were opened to the public and as usual there was a rush to buy plants at the plant sale table. The sale chairman was busy taking money and making change. The woman crowded in with the prize-winning plant from which she had removed the "Special award" ribbon and substituted a card removed from another plant, labeled "For sale, $2.50." She thrust the $2.50 into the sale chairman's hand and made off with the plant before anyone realized what had happened. (The planter and contents were worth at least $20.00.) So, technically, it was "fraud" instead of "theft" and the woman is no doubt proudly displaying her "Bargain" to her friends. Clues to her identity are being gathered and if she is moved by conscience (or the fear of detection) to restore the prize plant to its rightful owner, it may be left at the Oleander Gardens in Carmel Valley and no questions asked. Meanwhile, the owner is offering a reward for information leading to its recovery (Phone 659-2802).

(Owner's name withheld)

Editor of The Outlook:

Our only hope for the future of the Monterey Peninsula is a Board of Supervisors and Planning Commission who will enforce a stringent rezoning to protect one of the most beautiful areas in the world. When we see them allowing Jerry Lewis Theatres and ugly housing developments and gas stations instead of green belts, it is time for the property owners to demand representatives who will represent us, not the out of state developer.

Santa Cruz and San Mateo Counties are rezoning to protect and conserve what they have and it can be done here. It must be done!

We must act now. Write to your supervisor and ask to be represented fairly. It is shameful the way the property owners of Carmel Valley have been ignored in favor of big business by the supervisor and Planning Commission. Our supervisor Willard Branson took the Master Plan of Carmel Valley away from us three years ago so we have no protection.

The convention, with "Quest for Quality" as its theme, was sponsored by the California Association of Work Experience Educators, the chancellor's office of California Community Colleges, and the State Department of Education.

The work experience program at MPC - as at other community colleges - exists to instruct students in "desirable work habits and attitudes in real jobs." Students are supervised in and receive credit for both on- and off-campus jobs which either are, or may not be, related to their occupational goals.

Carmel City Council asks CRC to withdraw its Odello plans

The Carmel City Council last week asked City Reconstruction Co. and their financial backers to withdraw their proposal for the development of the 292-acre Odello artichoke ranch.

A strongly worded resolution, which passed unanimously, cited seven reasons why the development, which calls for the construction of 1,844 residential and resort units, was not in the best interest of the people in the area.

The resolution states that "there is almost a unanimous feeling on the part of the citizens--excluding large landowners--against the proposed CRC, Prudential Insurance Co., Kidder Peabody, Del Monte Properties request to modify the zoning requirements of this beautiful area to permit a $60 million, 5,000 person project."

The resolution, drafted by the council's Lands and Improvements Committee, called for "Prudential Insurance Co., the Kidder Peabody Co. and the Del Monte Properties Co...to withdraw their proposal for the development...so that the concerned citizens of this area may purchase the Odello properties for the benefit of all of the people of the area."

Councilman Frank Falge, a member of the Lands and Improvement Committee, speaking for the resolution, said, "The average person has a problem making his voice heard. Many people have written to Prudential and received an unsatisfactory form letter. Maybe," he continued, "this resolution will get through to the right people."

Mayor Barney Laiolo inquired whether it was the business of the Carmel City Council to comment on matters outside the city limits. He joined the unanimous vote, however, when Falge pointed out that the resolution cited the city's interest, "in its accepted zone of influence," areas within a three-mile radius of the city limits.

The complete text of the resolution follows:

WHEREAS, in the belief that great companies such as Prudential Insurance Company and the Kidder Peabody Company respect and pay attention to the citizens views concerning their financial actions affecting their well being, and; WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea acting for its concerned citizens, as well as those in the adjoining Carmel River area in its accepted zone of influence does transmit the feelings of these citizens to the Prudential Insurance Company, the Kidder Peabody Company and the Del Monte Properties Company.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES RESOLVE:

That there is almost a unanimous feeling on the part of the citizens (excluding large land-owners) of the Carmel Valley Area against the proposed CRC, Prudential Insurance Company, Kidder Peabody, Del Monte Properties request to modify the zoning requirements of this beautiful area to permit a $60,000,000-5000 person project, and;

That the reasons for the opposition to this project are:

a. The character of the CRC plan is not in keeping with the character of the site and surrounding residential area.

b. Present zoning and previous proposals of the Odello's do not permit the high density planned by CRC.

c. The area of development lies in the flood plain of the Carmel River; it has been inundated and the floods of three times the size of former floods can be expected according to the Army Corps of Engineers 1967 report.

d. Additional diking may help the property but will contribute to greater flooding of adjacent and up-river properties.

e. The huge "resort" complex on the westerly ocean side violates the residential character of the area and may ruin the adjacent game preserve.

f. The high density of residents and transients proposed will add greatly to the problems posed by too many automobiles on a "scenic" approved two-lane State Highway with inadequate egress and ingress.

g. The Carmel River area is currently experiencing serious fresh water deficiency and pollution problems which may be accentuated by a high density development as proposed.

That the Prudential Insurance Company, the Kidder Peabody Company, and the Del Monte Properties Company are requested to withdraw their proposal for the development of these properties so that the concerned citizens of this area may purchase the Odello properties for the benefit of all the people of the area.

'A Better Chance' program at Carmel High?

10 ethnic minority students would be brought into community

BY PAT GRIFFITH

The Carmel school board will be asked tonight to endorse A Better Chance, a privately-funded program which hopes to enroll 10 minority students in Carmel High School next September.

Thomas M. Mikula, director of the ABC public school program with offices at Dartmouth College, will attend tonight's meeting to explain the program. The school board meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Brey Hall at Carmel High School.

Mikula will make a similar presentation tomorrow night (Thursday) in a special public meeting on ABC which will also be held in Brey Hall, starting at 8 p.m.

Basically Mikula hopes to get support for a plan to permit 10 talented but academically disadvantaged boys of minority races to attend Carmel High School under the auspices of ABC. At present there are only a handful of non-Caucasian students at the high school, including one black.

The boys, chosen from applications submitted from all over the country, would live together in an ABC dormitory-home. The resident director would be a Carmel High School teacher, who would live there full time with his wife and family.

The director would be assisted by two college tutors, most likely chosen from Stanford of U.C. Santa Cruz, who would work at Carmel High School as teacher aides at no cost to the school district. In the evenings they would provide three hours of intensive tutoring for the 10 resident ABC students.

If the Carmel program were to follow the pattern of ABC programs elsewhere, 10 students already attending Carmel High School would also be chosen for the ABC program. They would continue to live at home, but would go to the ABC residence five nights a week to study and work with the undergraduate tutors.

An ad hoc committee of interested Carmel and Carmel Valley residents, led by the Rev. David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel, has been studying the national ABC program for two years.

According to attorney Mark Starr, who has worked with the group, the possibility of establishing an ABC program in Carmel suddenly became a possibility last month, when an ABC grant of $20,000 a year for two years became available.

On a national basis, there are 15 public schools participating in the ABC program, most of them located near colleges or universities in the East.

The first ABC public school program in California will start in Altadena in September. It is sponsored primarily by the Samuel Goldwyn Foundation, and will enroll ten boys from Watts.

If the Carmel school board gives its endorsement, the Carmel ABC program would start at the same time, making two in the West.

ABC BEGINNINGS

ABC was originally started by Dartmouth College and a group of eastern preparatory schools in 1963 to prepare promising ninth and tenth grade students of minority races for college and ultimate leadership roles in society.

Students from all over the United States were selected on the basis of academic and leadership potential. Coming from urban ghetto and farming communities, Indian reservations and Eskimo villages, they were taken out of home and community situations in which they had little chance to succeed and brought together in community-sponsored ABC residences.

Dartmouth College provided an introductory summer ABC experience that emphasized English and mathematics. Then the prep schools assumed the major responsibility for providing three to four years of college preparatory education.

In the summer of 1964, 55 boys came to Dartmouth. In succeeding summers, the program was expanded to other campuses: Mount Holyoke for girls, Carleton, Williams, Duke and Amherst. By 1969 over 1400 boys and girls had been placed in outstanding private preparatory schools.

Some have attended Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach, where they have been assimilated into the regular dormitories on the campus rather than living together as a separate unit.

In 1966, the program was expanded to include public schools. The basic plan has been to gather together 10 to 12 ABC students in one residence in a community which generally does not have a minority population, but which does have an outstanding high school providing quality college-preparatory courses.

The first public schools ABC program started in Hanover, N.H., and included students from Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Through 1970, 184 students had been enrolled in various public school ABC programs. While many are still attending high school, 73 have graduated and all 73 have been accepted by colleges across the nation.

Dartmouth leads with 15 ABC students, followed by Tufts with five and Lawrence, Case Western, and Macalester with three each. ABC students have also been accepted at Stanford, Harvard, Columbia, Cornell, Colgate, Bowdoin, Amherst, Pomona, Syracuse, Northwestern, Mt. Holyoke, Swarthmore, Reed, Oberlin, Duke, Drake, Williams, Tuskegee, and the Universities of Arizona, Memphis, New Hampshire, New Mexico and Pennsylvania, among others.

FINANCING

During the initial years of operation, the cost of educating 10 disadvantaged youngsters and maintaining an ABC residence is approximately $30,000 per year, or $3,000 per student.

A community starting an ABC public schools program generally receives support for two-thirds of this cost, or $20,000, for the first two or three years. This money comes primarily from corporations, foundations and individuals.

In order to receive this outside help, a community must first raise the remaining one-third, or about $10,000. This is generally a combination of cash and in-kind contributions.

In the case of Carmel, Starr said, the ad hoc ABC committee will probably need to raise about $4000 in cash. In most eastern school districts, he said, there is a tuition charge, averaging about $600 a year, for students attending a public high school whose families do not live in the area.

This would not be the case in Carmel, Starr said, but the school board does need to approve the expense in terms of instruction, supplies and transportation required for the 10 additional students.

He said he felt this would probably be offset by the advantage of having two highly-motivated teacher aides at the high school who would be paid for by ABC, not Carmel area taxpayers.

In addition to supplying funds for the school year, ABC also provides approximately $1,000 per student for the special summer introduction programs, which help bridge the gap between home and the new college-oriented community.

The first director of the ABC public schools program, James Simmons, is now Assistant to the President at Stanford. Starr said that if enough ABC programs get underway on the West Coast, Stanford has indicated its interest in providing a six-weeks orientation session similar to the ones now given in the East.

CARMEL PROGRAM

If there is a Carmel ABC program, the first 10 students will all be boys, primarily to simplify living arrangements. However, both boys and girls at Carmel High School would be eligible to apply for the local ABC program of special tutoring.

All applications for resident students go first to the ABC office at Dartmouth College. After initial screening, a certain number would be forwarded to the Carmel ABC committee, which would make the final selection of students who would come here.

Carmel's ABC students would receive their summer introductory work at Carleton College in Minnesota. Most, or possibly all, would be high school juniors or seniors.

Starr said that the committee has talked with a Carmel high school teacher who is interested in serving as resident director, and that arrangements are underway for living accommodations. He said this information would be announced in the near future when plans are firm.

Although students would live in the ABC residence all week, on weekends they would be able to visit with families in Carmel and Carmel Valley.

According to the ABC booklet which will be available at tomorrow night's meeting, "After a long week of activity centered around the ABC residence, Sunday afternoon with his host family can provide a welcome change of scene for an ABC student. The host family does not go out of its way to entertain its guest, but rather allows the ABC student to enter into family activities to whatever extent he wishes.

"Some ABC students look forward to an afternoon of touch football; many are interested in discussing newly developed ideas with a typical white family; others are anxious to be alone to reflect on the events of the previous week, and the weeks to come.

"Through this exposure, differences no longer remain barriers, but instead are understood and enjoyed. As one high school principal observed—"A great many curiosities and possibly a great many prejudices that might have been held before have now been dispelled."

Working with the Rev. Hill and Starr on the initial stages of the local ABC effort have been the Rev. James Brock, rector of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church; George Schroeder, Perry Miller, Dr. John Baldwin, Lou Gardner, Conrad Olson, John Graham, Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Phyllis Bennett and a high school student representative, Glen Harnish.

Starr said the group would welcome more interested persons before a final board of directors is selected.

"We need more people to assist us," he said. "This will be an on-going program that will need support from the entire community if it is to succeed and be of mutual benefit, to the students who come here and to those of us who live here."

Through 1970, the ABC enrollment in public schools had this racial distribution: 184 Negro, 25 white, 63 American Indian, 28 Puerto Rican, and 9 Mexican American, for a total of 309 students entering the program.

Starr said he would assume that the Carmel ABC program would involve a racial mixture, probably including at least one Eskimo.

Impressive agenda faces

School Board tonight

The Carmel board of education faces a long and weighty agenda at tonight's meeting, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Brey Hall at Carmel High School.

The board will be asked to take action on participation in "A Better Chance" program (see separate story), a proposal for school buses and a revision of the board's rules regarding the transportation of students to special activities, the summer recreation program and the summer adult school program, and the district's fire and extended coverage insurance.

The board will also be approving teachers for tenure and voting on the re-employment or non-re-employment of certified personnel.

In addition, the board will receive a report on the budget for the 1971-72 school year, a report on the staff reaction to a change in the rules on corporal punishment, a report on the problem of roofing the high school and a report from the student board member, Doug McCall.

Plans completed for Camp Amigos in Valley

Applications for Camp Amigos are now available in the offices at Carmelo and Tularcitos schools.

The non-demonitonal, integrated day camp will open its third summer season on July 12 on the grounds of the All Saints' Day School in Carmel Valley.

Sixty children, representing a racial and economic balance, will be able to attend one of three day camp sessions.

Session No. 1 for children seven to nine years old, will be held July 12-16. Session No. 2 from July 19-23, will be for children 8 to 10 years old. Session No. 3, July 26-29, will be for nine to eleven year olds.

There will also be a week of overnight camping for children 10 to 12 years old in Big Sur from Aug. 9 to 13. Last year's Big Sur campers will be invited to attend a special reunion camp the first week of August.

The camp is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albert of Monterey, who are assisted by a group of high school counselors. The camp program consists of crafts, sports, music, hikes and daily outings to the beach, the Carmel Valley community pool or other points of interest.

The camp fee is only $1 a week for the day camp, or $2 for the week at Big Sur, in order to make the program available to children of all economic backgrounds. However, parents who are able to pay more may make a voluntary contribution to supplement funds received from churches, civic organizations and interested individuals throughout the Monterey Peninsula.

All children accepted for Camp Amigos will be asked to attend a free medical clinic at Highland School in Seaside on Saturday, June 5, at 9 a.m. Campers unable to attend this clinic will be required to have a health form signed by their family physician.

Applications should be mailed before May 29. Those received later will be put on a waiting list. For additional information, parents may call Gloria Stewart at 624-5845.

A BRIGHT BLUE WHEEL BARROW filled with small boys, gratitude and birthday wishes was an important part of the surprise birthday party given Tularcitos volunteer recreation program director, Herb Reuter. The Community Center Board members learned that a wheel barrow to pour cement for the Reuters' soon-to-be-under-construction-home would be handy so they presented one to him with their thanks for his three years of service. Many of the team members learned that his home will include a built-in desk of English Walnut—so they chose a desk set of the same wood for their favorite coach. Among the hundred parents and children who gathered for the potluck barbecue were, left to

SIGNS PROCLAIMING, "Happy Birthday Coach" (created by Beth Vanetta) and "Thank you, Mr. Reuter," (the work of Lyde and Lee Mink) greeted Herb Reuter who was honored with a birthday potluck barbecue in the picnic area of the CV Little League Field. The popular fifth grade Tularcitos instructor has voluntarily conducted an after school-weekend recreation program in conjunction with the Carmel Valley Community Center for three years. He has organized boys on teams in grades second through fifth in League play for each season—football, basketball, volleyball, soccer and softball.

Competition was both at Tularcitos and occasionally with other schools in the Carmel Unified School District. Several nights a week are devoted to after school practice, transportation has been arranged for boys who did not have any, Saturdays spent on the field (and he even persuaded a number of fathers to come down and umpire the games). Each season ends with a party celebrating that particular championship team with prizes and party fare provided by Coach Reuter and his wife, Donna.

A number of parents who felt that "Thank you's" for his tremendous contribution to our community were long overdue, learned of his approaching birthday and began plans for a suprise party not knowing that the Community Center Board members had also begun plans to purchase a gift to express their appreciation. The latter, a bright blue wheel barrow, was presented by Community Center president, Gordon Harlander, while the young athletes selected a handsome English walnut desk set which they hope will remind their coach over the years of the many boys whom he taught to enjoy sports—as well as good sport-smanship.

Plans for the birthday surprise were engineered by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Nottenkamper, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Vannatta Dr. and Mrs. Dale Buche, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mink, Mrs. Jon Englund, Mrs. Kaye Draper, Mrs. Andy Fogelmanis, Mrs. Don Sweiss and Mrs. Mildred Hattan.

Donald Johnson at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. Luncheon guests included their attendants (Holly's uncle and his wife) Capt. and Mrs. Ross Linson of Alameda and Rev. and Mrs. Johnson.

For her wedding the bride chose a short suit dress of green and blue borcade. For "something borrowed" she carried a lace covered bible loaned by Mrs. Paul Nielsen.

Mrs. Willard Williams was in charge of decorating the church. The music for the nuptials was provided by Major Don Norton who is Chapel organist at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Mrs. Wayne Dearing assisted by Mrs. Richard Watkins gave a reception for the couple in Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Miss Donna Williams was in charge of the guest book. The popular couple, who teach the Junior High Sunday School class at the Chapel, are at home on Paso Hondo following a honeymoon in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

THE FLASHIEST SET OF GOLF CLUBS to appear on local courses in a long time were a reward from Don Draper, jr., a Carmel High senior to himself for winning first place at the 4th annual high school physics symposium held at the University of Santa Clara. Each competing student gave a 20-minute paper on either gravitational waves, the Copernican revolution or empirical evidence for relativistic behavior. The handsome clubs were purchased from Draper's $100.00 winnings.

RAIN DROPS FALLING on the heads of the table prize winners from the April benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored by St. Dunstan's won't cause the least concern because the thoughtful hostesses, Mrs. Philip Mothersill, Mrs. Philip Walker and Mrs. John Spangler, presented each lady with a rain cap topped with a miniature Japanese parasol!

Yellow tallies, napkins and place mats further dispatched any cloudy skies for the twelve tables of players at the Mothersill home on Lupin Lane. Mrs. Dorie Ford won a 1st place in bridge and Mrs. Dorothea Edwards won second. At the canasta tables the awards went to Mike Cecka, 1st and Helen Fitch for second. Table prizes were won by Natalie Compass, Martha Sturgis, Carliysle Mothersill, Mike Cecka, Rosa Clark, Joanne Peterson, Helen Fitch, Ruth Stauffer, Marion Kingsland, Mary Young, Flo Holmes and Dorie Ford. A new guest from Carmel, Catherine Boise, was welcomed to the Valley group.

"RIBBONS FOR REUTERS' RABBITS" was the Valley news item that came out of the two day Big Spring Rabbit Show sponsored by the Rabbit Breeders of the Santa Clara Valley. A total of 200 entries in the youth division and 600 more entered in the adult division were presented to the judges at the Santa Clara Fairgrounds event in San Jose.

Awards in what has become a family hobby for the Reuter children, Winifred, Mary Jane, Walter and Doug and their parents, Donna and Herb, were 2nd place for their Chocolate Dutch; a 1st in class and a 5th in fur for their Chinchilla Rex; and a 1st in class and a first in fur for their White Rex. The Upper Circle family plan to enter their prize winning hares in the King City Fair and also a spring show scheduled for Salinas.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER SPAULDING and Mrs. Richard Hindman, members of the ladies auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department, join their husbands and other Valley firemen in extending cordial invitation to join them on Saturday, May 15 from 9 until 12 at the 23rd Annual Fireman's Ball to be held at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Dance chairman, Erasimo Bellici has scheduled the Royales to play. Among the numerous door prizes will be three sets of Artography (photographs of nature's wonders) donated by Valley artist Alex Weygers. Tickets may be purchased at the Fire House, from any fireman, or at the door—donations $1.00.

A pink wine punch and pink and white petit-fours were served from a table attractive with its strawberry tree, its pineapple tree, and pink and white floral arrangements on white lace.

Mrs. Leslie Vannatta had assisted with party arrangements for the guests who included Kirsten's mother, and Mmes. Darell Jewett, Stan Nubin, Dorothy Gonzanbach, Neil Sparks, Don Middleton, Leon Mink, William Smith, Christopher Spaulding, Don Sweiss, William Brodrick, Don Cummings, Andy Nottenkamper, Luther Washington, David Allard, Rex Pryer, and James Yocky.

YOUTH SCIENCE CENTER GUILD

The third annual Old Fashion Benefit Picnic will be presented by the Youth Science Center Guild May 23 from noon to 4 p.m. at the Swiss Gun & Rifle Club in Gonzales. All proceeds go to benefit the Youth Science Center of Monterey County located on River Road, Salinas.

The colorful turn of the century costumes will be worn by guild members (and guests if they wish), the music and entertainment and the lovely outdoor setting make this an event the whole family will enjoy.

Games and booths are planned so that every member of the family can participate. Popular repeats from last year will be the rousing frog jumping contest, pony rides, cake walk, wheel of fortune, bingo and the dunking booth. New additions include a duck pond, football throw, photography and an airplane fly-in.

A week at Lake Tahoe at a lakefront home plus two nights and three days at Disneyland will be offered as a grand prize.

The event is open to the public and reservations may be made by calling the Youth Science Center, 455-1776, or sending a donation of $5.00 per family to P.O. Box 2095, Salinas.

Dr. and Mrs. Ken Romanoff to speak at Baptist Church

First Baptist Church, Carmel, will have as guests at the 6:00 p.m. service on Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Ken Romanoff. Dr. Romanoff is a children's dentist, practicing in Fremont. He graduated from U.C. Berkeley, 1952. His wife comes from Grand Rapids, Mich. They met at Mount Hermon Christian Conference Grounds, and were married there five years ago this month.

Dr. and Mrs. Romanoff with their brother-in-law Alex Yefimov and 10-year-old son Sasha left to travel through Russia by Volkswagen camper last summer. However, upon arrival in Vienna they were frustrated by a five day waiting period at the Russian Embassy, thus necessitating a change in plans.

This led them to the most fantastic adventure through five Iron Curtain countries—Yugoslavia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland and East Germany. Under most usual circumstances they met believers and observed how they worship and live. They were able to deliver Bibles into hands that would carry them into Russia, although they still hope that soon they will be able to do this themselves.

They will be sharing their experiences in the Iron Curtain countries and their meetings with the Body of Christ in Yugoslavia, Hungary and Poland. The public is invited.

AN AMATEUR ANTHROPOLOGIST as well as a talented photographer, Marguerite Gregory and her husband, Van, have a special affection for the American Indian. They have made repeated photographic study tours through the Southwest, and the living room of their Carmel Valley Manor home reflects their travels. The water color painting depicts Pueblo Indians doing the Corn Dance. Below are pottery figures created by Helen Cordero, a Cochiti Pueblo Indian, which depict a storyteller and his drummer accompanist.

MARGUERITE GREGORY

A bundle of photographic energy

BY PAT GRIFFITH

THE LACY TRANSLUCENCE of an orange dragon fly shows up against a sprig of desert sage in this photograph by Marguerite Gregory of Carmel Valley Manor. This exquisite picture was singled out by the Entomological Society of America for a special award of excellence, the highest honor the society gives to a non-member. Moments after this picture was taken, the dragon fly flitted off.

Marguerite Gregory is four feet, 10 inches of curiosity, stamina and flexibility whose idea of a perfect day is to be perched on a platform in a remote duck blind, alone except for the tules, her Leica camera and plenty of film.

She also delights in jouncing along rutted roads in Arizona and New Mexico as she and her husband, Van, visit remote Indian villages. Together they have scrambled along island cliffs to study and photograph rare birds, and once they spent a full week at the Grand Canyon waiting for precisely the right red to appear at sunset.

Since 1956 the Gregorlys have logged well over 50,000 miles in trips stretching from Vancouver to Guadalajara, from Quebec to the Florida Everglades. They seldom hold still for very long, but when they do, home is Carmel Valley Manor. Mrs. Gregory, inveterate traveller, lecturer, and photographic exhibitor, is a dynamic 70 years old.

There was a time when the Gregorlys lived a relatively settled life in Dayton, Ohio, where Van was the civilian head of procurement for the Division of Air Materiel Command of the U.S. Air Force. Then he retired "and someone in the office talked him into getting a travel trailer. I've never quite forgiven him for that," she laughs, not really meaning a word of it.

"So in 1956 we wandered out this way, and spent four years driving around from San Diego to Canada." At one point their unplanned itinerary led from Jackson Hole to Kansas City to Denver, where the Photographic Society of America happened to be holding a convention.

Mrs. Gregory met two wildlife photographers who promised to teach her all they knew if she would just move to Southern California -- so off the Gregorlys went, lock, stock and trailer, to find a winter home in Palm Springs.

Nothing has been quite the same since. Mrs. Gregory is now an Associate of the Photographic Society of America, and has received numerous ribbons and awards in international exhibitions. She has won so many honors in the Society's nature division that she has finally stopped entering competitive events, and instead spends her "at home" hours putting together slide programs on wildlife, Indians or particularly scenic areas they have visited.

Today she will be presenting a slide program "Along the East Coast" for members of the Carmel Foundation and interested members of the public in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel Her program, which will last about an hour, is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m.

"This is one of my main interests now," she says, "presenting programs that are enjoyed by people seeking knowledge and beauty and who want an opportunity to appreciate some of the things they knew and loved when they were young, but can't get to anymore."

It takes her at least three to four months to sort through hundreds, or possibly thousands of slides from a journey, reread boxloads of pamphlets, clippings and notes they collect en route, and then write out a coherent, informative program. When she has it done to her satisfaction, she tapes her remarks, so she can concentrate on working the slide projector during the program itself.

Now when they travel, the Gregorlys take several of her completed slide programs with them, and readily accept invitations to appear at veterans' hospitals, clubs and schools along the way.

Wildlife is one absorbing interest. Indian life and culture are another.

For several years the nomadic couple made Santa Fe, New Mexico, their basic headquarters while they visited scores of reservations and studied the life of the Pueblo Indians in particular.

"I'm sure if we could be young again, we would go into anthropology and archeology," Mrs. Gregory says. "We visited so many places that tourists never go, and have made a few good friends among the Indians."

This summer they plan to make repeat swings through Utah, New Mexico and Arizona to study and photograph the Navajos, Hopis and Pueblos.

They'll probably be here in the fall, then go on to Yosemite for Christmas, followed by Phoenix, where Mrs. Gregory has been asked to do a program at the Heard Museum of Anthropology and Primitive Art.

First things first however. In June they will attend a regional meeting of a camera group that specializes in wildlife photography in a rustic area near San Bernardino. Mrs. Gregory will be giving a seminar on how to make a nature essay.

For awhile they were thinking maybe of flying off to South Africa to photograph big game, or dropping in on the Galapagos Islands, but those plans have been temporarily shelved. Instead, Van, who does all the travel planning, is investigating the possibility of their going by helicopter from Honolulu to a wildlife refuge on a remote island in the Hawaiian chain where man is rarely allowed.

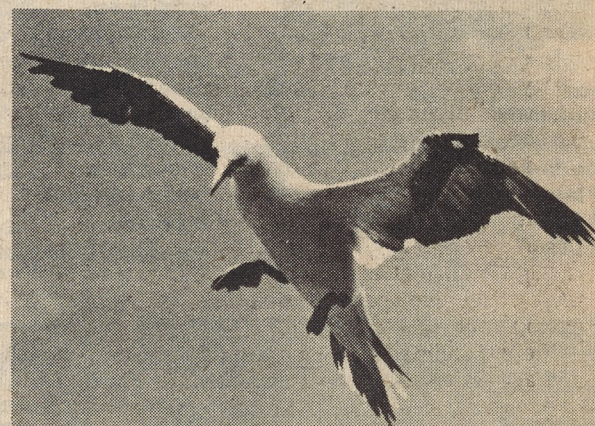

Last summer they tried something different. They spent a month in Japan with a tour group. They haven't had time to look through the 11 boxes of slides from that trip, but Mrs. Gregory isn't expecting to find much when she does.

"I just took tourist pictures, and they don't count," she sniffs. "People ask me when I'm going to make a program on Japan, and I really don't know. I'm certainly not going to put something together that I'm bored to death with."

Sometime, as her busy days spin on, Mrs. Gregory hopes she'll have an opportunity to meet a man in Carmel who is also a member of the Photographic Society of America -- Ansel Adams. She has never forgotten how impressed she was with a speech Adams gave at a photographic convention she attended in Washington, D.C., two years ago.

She'd also like to meet John Woolfenden, Carmel Valley journalist and keen observer of the wildlife scene.

Gentlemen, consider yourselves introduced.

This is one of dozens of slide pictures taken by Marguerite Gregory which record the life cycle of these great birds, which have a wing span of over six feet. By JUDITH A. EISNER

Dog and horse breeders spend many a sleepless night thinking up appropriate and original names for their animals. Sometimes the name is instantly memorable, as in Man O' War; sometimes the name is whimsical or humorous. The only filly to ever win the Kentucky Derby was named Regret; we wonder what her breeder was sorry about.

Naming a dog or cat who is going to be living with you for a long time requires careful thought and perhaps a family pow wow. If you leave the naming of a new pet up to the kids, you're likely to end up with a Spot, Brownie or Lassie.

If you like names like Spot and Brownie, those names are fine. But more often than not, people would like a more unique and interesting name for their pet.

In general, any name for an animal should be of one or two syllables and distinct-sounding. "Cinderella" is kind of awkward to pronounce even though little girls adore naming puppies after that fairy princess.

Good sources for pet names are similar to sources for baby names. Some of the name books and pamphlets in the library may prove inspiring even though they are intended for human babies.

The Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 10017, sends out a booklet on dog-naming without charge.

Mythology offers a practically endless storehouse of unique names, ranging from the familiar Zeus and Odin to thousands of less familiar but beautiful and appropriate names. "Alastor," for example, means "avenger"; "Brimo" means "raging one;" "Charis" means "grace;" and there are charming stories in the Greek Myths that tell about these ancient personalities.

The kind of dog or cat may help determine its name. Breeders of the sled dogs like to use Eskimo names such as Nonoak (bear); Irish Setters do well with Irish names. A local Irish Setter is named O'Rourke, for example.

Siamese cats usually bear Oriental-sounding names. We know one called Mani-Tai, whose mother's name is Loki and whose daughter is called Tani-Tai. Another uniquely named Siamese cat is Sonn II, where the Roman numeral designating that the cat is the second to bear the name helps it sound Oriental, as in "Sun-Tu". We also know of a Siamese named Wyrd, who was the Nordic goddess of Fate.

Stage stars or political personalities may inspire you. A Carmel Valley dog is called Peter O'Toole and he shares his home with a cat named Zapata. We also know a Poodle named Garbo and a Fox Terrier named Senor Pico.

Dogs can be named after Indian tribes, as in Cherokee, Commanche, Apache, etc., or racing cars, as in Ferrari or Lotus.

Perhaps the most innovative name we've come across is Shazam. Those of you who read comics years ago will recall that Captain Marvel cried "Shazam!" whenever launching himself into some new derring-do. As explained to us, Shazam is an acronym for the wisdom of Solomon, the strength of Hercules, the stamina of Atlas, the power of Zeus, the heel of Achilles and the speed of Mercury.

Her daughter is carrying on with an original name -- Sesame.

There are instances where you will select a beautiful name and attempt to teach it to the dog or cat with absolutely no success. Cats, especially, seem to reject names that don't appeal to them.

After a week or two of trying valiantly to accustom the new pet to his name, if you get no response whatsoever, the best we can suggest is that you try a new name. Usually, it works wonders and the puppy or kitten responds almost immediately.

If you buy a dog or cat who is eligible for registration, his name becomes somewhat more important than just what he is known as.

No two animals of one breed may be registered with the same name. That accounts, in part, for purebred dogs and cats having such high-sounding and complicated names. Naturally, the animal is never actually called "High Acres Thane of Cawdor" at home; he is given a call name that is simple and short, like "Thane" in this case.

Purebred dogs and cats are often named by using their kennel name and another name. "High Acres" would be the kennel in the above example and "Thane of Cawdor" the dog's individual name. This method of naming not only identifies the breeder's kennel name, but makes it well nigh impossible to duplicate a name.

If you have a puppy and want to register it with the American Kennel Club (providing of course, that it is purebred and its parents were both registered), and the breeder had no kennel name, you can invent a prefix by using either your own name or a word that refers to your home.

You can use a street name as a prefix, as in Junipero or Casanova or Monte Verde in Carmel and Boronda or Poppy or Sage in Carmel Valley and couple it with the dog's name. That would give you something like Junipero's Jupiter, for example, or Sage's Serena.

The possibilities are endless for giving your pet a unique and attractive name. So why settle for Spot?

We've noticed a number of dogs in recent weeks riding in the back of station wagons with the rear window rolled down. It has been proven that dangerously dense exhaust fumes will come in that back window and dogs are particularly susceptible to this carbon monoxide. So keep the rear window rolled up and lower windows that will provide fresh air without exhaust fumes for you pet. And that goes for children riding in the back of wagons, too.

Cypress 11-12 swimmers still seek to qualify for championships

The Cypress Swim Club 11-12 team moved into fourth place at the 1971 Pacific AAU Age Group Figures Meet held on Saturday at College Park Pool in Pleasant Hill.

This placing is not quite good enough to qualify for the Regional Age Group Championships, but it represents a two-position jump over the placement in the Junior Olympic Trials two weeks ago.

Next weekend the routine qualifying meet will be sponsored by the Walnut Creek Aquanauts at Larkey Swim Center in Walnut Creek. Though the odds are against them, Cypress will be in there pushing for third place in the 11-12 team event since the first three places qualify for the Regional Championships.

Cypress swimmers' scores and their placings were as follows:

10-and-under (57 entries): Emily White (30th) 12.2789; Jennie Mink (47th) 10.4494

11-12 (74 entries): Gerri Brandly (7th) 22.2554; Stacy Larsen (20th) 18.8269; Debbie Jameson (37th) 17.3291; Renayda Wolfe (41st) 16.6130; Judy Wright (46th) 15.7285; Julie Lipman (47th) 15.6818; Sidney Read (58th) 14.5474; and Kim Neill (60th) 14.3929

13-14 (71 entries): Kathryn Blevens (13th) 22.560; Suzanne Calley (49th) 16.870; and Loria Shaw (62nd) 14.725

15-17 (51 entries): Vicki Shaw (38th) 19.3722; and Kathy Clark (40th) 19.1481.

Valley Ford center before Planners

Parking for proposed theatre raises questions

The revised plans for the Valley Ford commercial complex will be presented to the Monterey County Planning Commission today at 1:40 p.m.

Architect Olof Dahlstrand is submitting a master plan for the entire development which eliminates a gas station that was marked on earlier drawings for the corner of Ford and Carmel Valley Roads.

Dahlstrand has also prepared a site plan and architectural drawings for the proposed first stage of the complex, a twin movie theater with a total seating capacity of 588. He will also show drawings of the development as it would appear when all buildings have been completed.

The Planning Commission will have three specific proposals to consider:

1. Approval of the master plan for the entire development. Because the property is in a Planned Commercial or PC zone, it is necessary for both the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors to approve the master plan.

2. A zoning permit for the movie theater. Under the provisions of the PC ordinance, each proposed building must obtain a zoning permit before it may be constructed. The Planning Commission has final say on this.

3. Design approval for the movie theater. The Upper Valley Advisory Committee, which studied Dahlstrand's drawings Friday morning, has recommended approval of the site plan.

However, it deadlocked 2-2 on approval of a zoning permit for the movie theater. Chairman Doyt Early and William Ricker voted for approval, while George Lockwood and Elizabeth Woolfenden were opposed.

Morden Buck, who left the meeting early because of illness, said he opposed the master plan, the zoning permit and the request for design approval.

"My feeling on the master plan," Buck said later, "is that what is approved now will not necessarily come to fruition. Anyone who knows marketing knows that what is the best marketing program this year may not be the best three years from now.

"I just don't think a master plan accomplished on a piecemeal basis means a darn thing. The location and types of buildings might have to be altered in the future."

Buck commended Dahlstrand for doing "the best job possible under the circumstances" in designing an attractive theater, but said he feared that the theater would stand alone for several years, and that therefore this use and design are not in the best interests of Carmel Valley.

Early said he felt the design for the theater was considerably more attractive than the initial drawing submitted by Dahlstrand last month, and was joined by the other members present in voting for approval.

QUESTION PARKING

Mrs. Woolfenden and Lockwood both opposed issuing a zoning permit for the theater on the basis that there is inadequate parking space provided.

"This bothers me considerably," Mrs. Woolfenden said. "The overflow is going to be parking along Carmel Valley Road and Rord Road and on up to the school."

Both readily acknowledged, however, that the parking plans which show 118 spaces when just the theater is built, and 169 spaces when the entire complex is finished, are more than adequate under county ordinances. A developer is required to have one parking space for every six seats in a theater, which, in this case, would mean a minimum of 98 parking spaces.

The revised Valley Ford plans exceed minimum requirements in other respects, too. The Valley Ford master plan shows 18.6 per cent of the land covered by buildings, while the zoning ordinance would permit up to 25 percent. Landscaping as shown will cover 14.9 percent of the property, compared to a minimum requirement of 10 percent.

Lack of detailed plans for landscaping was one reason given by the Planning Commission for continuing its hearing on Valley Rord until today. The commission had also requested drawings of architectural elevations.

Owner-developer Robert Bolman of Pebble Beach is in Europe and will not attend today's hearing before the Planning Commission.

GRAFF TO OPERATE THEATRE

However, he released an announcement on Friday that the operator of the twin movie theaters will be Tom S. Graff of Carmel, who owns and manages the Village Theatre in Carmel.

Bolman said Graff will operate the theaters for family entertainment, and expects to spend $75,000 in equipping them with the latest in seats and projection equipment and improved acoustical wall coverings.

Both theaters will be available at cost to community groups for meetings.

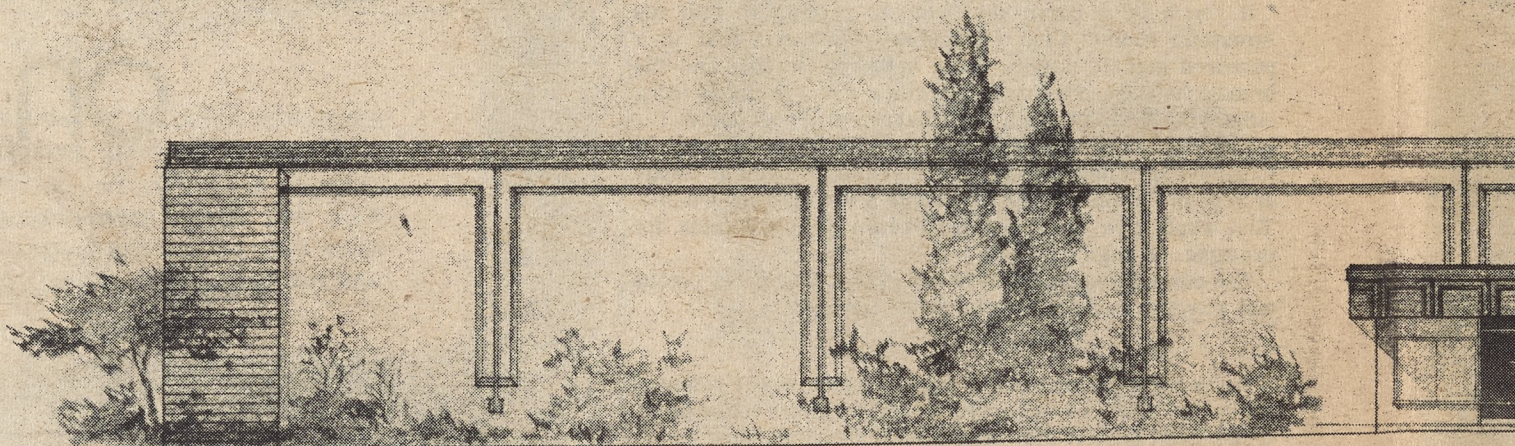

Graff and his wife, Geraldine, have been residents of the Carmel area for 15 years. He previously managed the Orpheum, United Artists and Esquire theaters in San Francisco, as well as others in Oakland, Placerville and San Jose.

Bolman has said he has no other tenants to announce at this time. He has said he is proceeding cautiously in order to attract new services and facilities needed by Carmel Valley residents. He said it is his intention not to compete with existing Valley businesses.

At its monthly meeting last Thursday, the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners voted to ask the Planning Commission to continue consideration of the Valley Ford development for 30 days, in order to give Valley residents more time to consider the plans.

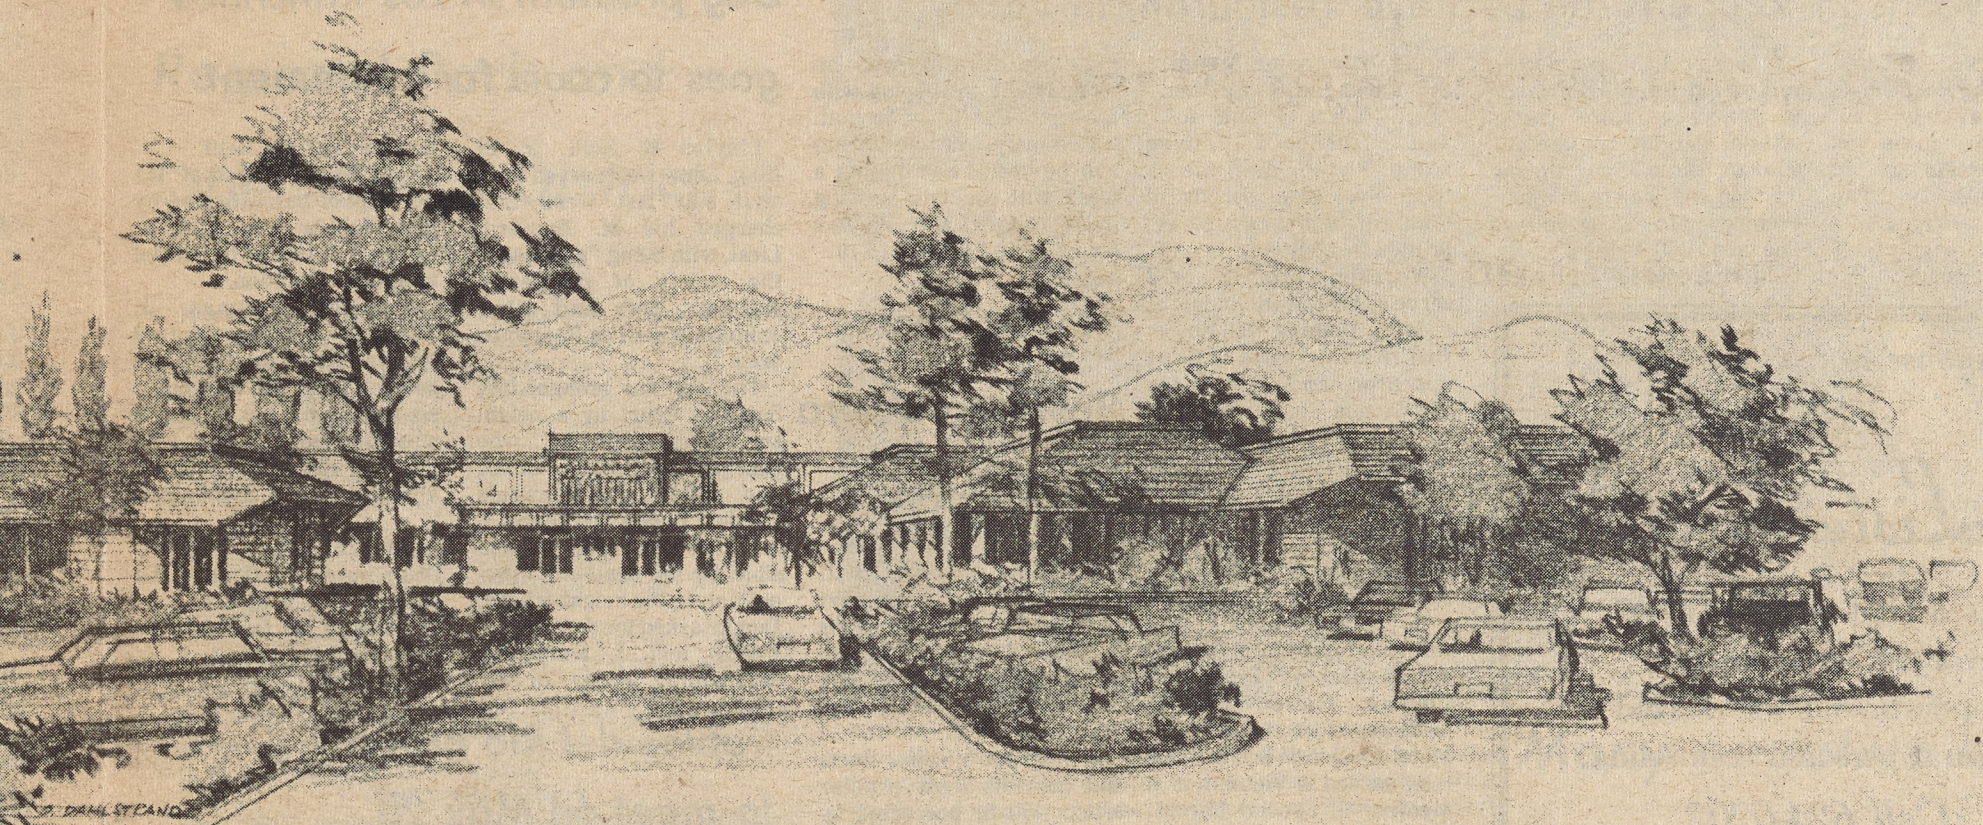

THE FIRST STAGE planned for Valley Ford is this twin movie theater with a total seating capacity of 588. Architect Olof Dahlstrand has added redwood trim along the walls and put in concrete blocks at the ends, similar to what is used at Del Monte Center, to enhance the building's appearance. This building will stand alone on the property until other tenants are signed up. Eventually the long walls on either side of the lobby will be blocked off by other stores. Above is the architect's rendering of the completed theater as seen from Ford Road. The Planning Commission will be asked to grant a zoning permit and design approval for the theater today.

VIEW OF ULTIMATE DEVELOPMENT
FROM CARMEL VALLEY ROAD

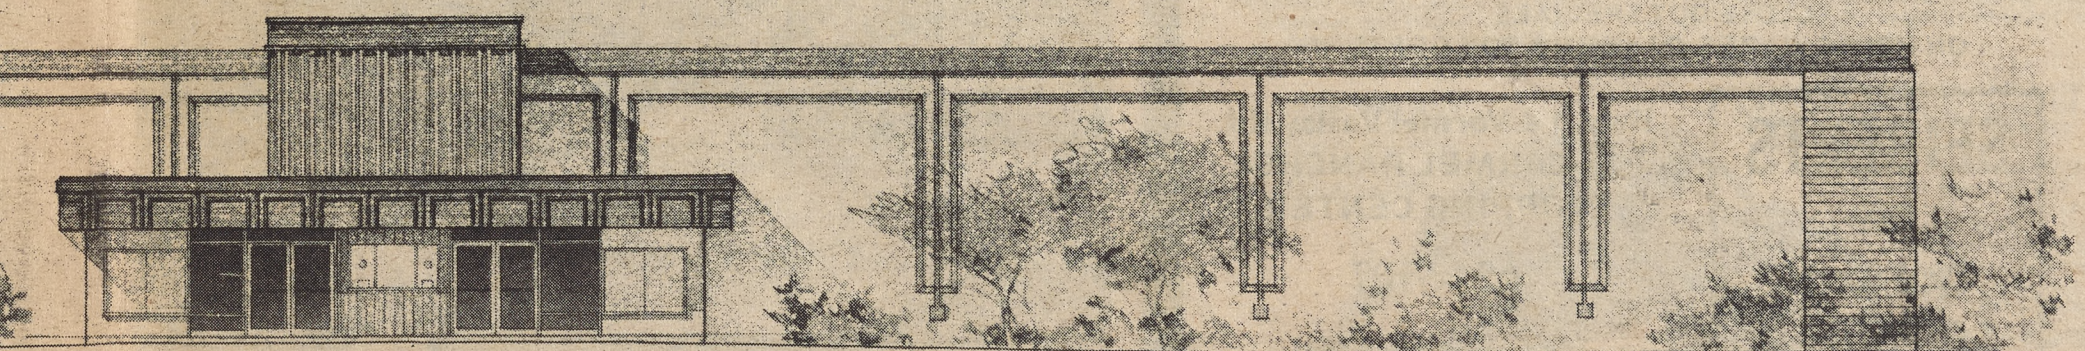

THIS WILL BE THE EVENTUAL APPEARANCE of Valley Ford, as envisioned now by architect Olof Dahlstrand and developer Robert Bolman. The lobby of the twin movie theater, proposed as the first stage of development, is shown straight ahead in the center. Here the long wings of the theater building are blocked by other stores. Bolman has said he has no other tenants signed up yet, but hopes to attract businesses that do not compete with those already in Carmel Valley.

THE PROPOSED VALLEY FORD TWIN THEATER will initially stand alone, as shown in this first stage site plan. Entrances from Carmel Valley Road and Ford Road will be landscaped, and some parking provided. More parking space will be provided facing Carmel Valley Road when the full development is completed.

THIS IS THE MASTER PLAN FOR VALLEY FORD, a proposed commercial complex at the corner of Ford and Carmel Valley Roads, which will be submitted to the Planning Commission today for approval. A block marked "F" indicates a building at the corner, replacing the gas station shown there on previous drawings. The Carmel Valley Community Center and pool building are marked at the top of the drawing. The development involves 4.3 acres owned by Robert H. Bolman of Pebble Beach. This plan must also be approved by the Board of Supervisors before it is official.

Chuck Woodson to open 'The Buckeye' restaurant in Valley

Charles "Chuck" Woodson will become the Peninsula's newest restaurateur next week when he opens his Buckeye Restaurant in Carmel Valley. The Buckeye, formerly Lou's Casa Carmela, is at 65 Carmel Valley Road.

Woodson has completely remodeled the old Carmela to reflect a more rustic setting and incorporate an outdoor patio for "dining out" on the warm summer evenings of the upper valley. The menu will feature "early California cuisine" with such valley place-name favorites as "Cachague Game Hen," "Los Padres Prime Rib" and "Hitchcock Canyon Lamb Stew." The menus themselves are reprints of California's first newspaper, printed in Monterey in 1848.

Woodson himself will serve as host. A son-in-law of C. Mark Thomas, well known Peninsula restaurant operator and hotelman, Woodson is Thomas-trained, having worked at the Mark Thomas Inn, the Outrigger and the Hearthstone as a management trainee. He also has served at the San Carlos Hotel and the Clock Restaurant.

He is a product of the Hotel and Restaurant School of Monterey Peninsula College where he was president-elect of the Hotel-Motel Business Society. He later served in Vietnam as a member of Special Forces.

Sherry Woodson, the daughter of Mark and Jean Thomas, will assist her husband in the operation of the restaurant, bringing into play a lifetime of association with the business. They live in the upper valley with their young son, Nathaniel.

Grand opening of the Buckeye, which, incidentally, commemorates a tree of that name indigenous to the valley, will be Monday, May 24. Free champagne will be served all evening, starting at 5 o'clock. Sioux Scott and Jerry Winters, popular Outrigger entertainers, will help get their friends, the Woodsons, off to an auspicious start by performing throughout the evening. The Buckeye will regularly feature folk entertainment, in keeping with the early California format.

Routinely, the restaurant will be open seven nights a week, with cocktails starting at 5 o'clock and dinners being served from 6 to 10.

Bowman Opera Workshop

Aspiring vocalists will benefit from a concert sponsored by the Nancy Ness Bowman Opera Workshop which will be held at the MPC Music Hall on Sunday, May 23 at 3 p.m.

A program of solos, duets and quartets from popular artists will be presented by guest artist Vince Russo and vocalists Lorraine Hilvar, Harriette Best, Ernest Lewis, Jean Canada, Albert Best and Shui-Ming Chan. Camille Olaeta will be the accompanist.

Donations of $1.50 will benefit the workshop's Vocal Scholarship Fund. Tickets are available at Abinante Music, Lilly Walker Music and at the door.

EMERGENCY

The Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department answered two calls for medical assistance last week. The first came Wednesday afternoon at 1:45 p.m. when six-year-old Robert French of 130 El Caminito broke his right arm while playing at Tularcitos School. The boy was given emergency first aid at the school and taken to a local doctor's office.

On Thursday at 6:39 p.m. Lawrence P. Russell of 604 Pearl St., Monterey, was taken from Rancho Del Monte Country Club to Community Hospital as a medical emergency.

There were no fire calls last week.

Dog problem in Los Ranchitos

goes to court for settlement

Clayton B. Neill, jr. of Ring Lane was named in a civil suit last week that charged his St. Bernard, Liesl, with being "a threat to the safety of residents, children, pets and other animals in the Los Ranchitos area."

The suit was brought into Superior Court by a neighbor, Martin Domke, who charged that Liesl attacked and killed the Domke's Poodle, Candy, on Feb. 1, and had also been responsible for the deaths of other animals in the neighborhood. Domke asked for damages of $356.50 and a temporary restraining order or injunction against Neill.

Domke charged that the dog cannot be controlled by Mrs. Neill or their children; and that it should be moved to another location.

Attorney Thomas J. Twohig, who represented Neill, said that the Neills are keeping Liesl tied up while a six-foot chain link fence is strengthened. Twohig said the dog was held "in great affection" as a family pet.

Superior Judge Ralph Drummond continued the case to May 28 at 9:30 a.m. Meanwhile, the fence will be inspected to see if it is escape-proof.

Robles del Rio group to meet on May 20

Assorted health and environmental problems confronting residents of Robles del Rio will be discussed at a community meeting sponsored by the Robles del Rio Improvement Company (ROSCO) on Thursday, May 20, at 8 p.m. ROSCO president Robert Reed said the meeting has been called to discuss "problems of sanitary facilities, loose animals running through the area and fire problems, including road access."

Guest speakers will be Walter Wong, chief of environmental services for the Monterey County Department of Public Health; Dr. Donald Caswell, Monterey County Health Department Veterinarian and chief pound officer; and Carmel Valley Fire Chief Chip Collins.

Reed said all Carmel Valley residents are invited to attend the meeting at the Community Center, although attention will be focused on Robles del Rio in particular.

New gallery in the Village

The new Tyson-Hoppin Gallery, formerly Aardvark at 20 Bernadelli Square, Carmel Valley Village, is giving a benefit sale of Carolyn Tyson's water color paintings, drawings and silk screen prints. Saturday, May 15, at 5 p.m. All proceeds will swell the funds being raised to save the open spaces of the Carmel River estuary by OLAF.

Carolyn Tyson is a poet painter and has published a book of her poetry. She has exhibited in her Gainsborough Studio in New York City; Bath, England; Guild Hall, East Hampton; Beverly Hills and Southampton, Long Island, her birth place.

Brought up at Montauk, Long Island, she has divided her time between Carmel and Long Island. She was once a neighbor of Robinson Jeffers who greatly encouraged her work. Mrs. Tyson studied at the Cunningham Institute, the Kearsage Group, and the Institute of Modern Art in New York under Victor D'Amico.

Her work is to be found in The America Wing of the Jaffa Museum, Israel, and in several private collections both in the United States and Europe. She has had one-man shows at the Fischbacher Gallery in Paris, and the Upper Grosvenor Galleries in London.

Mrs. Tyson is now devoting most of her time to conservation efforts on both sides of the continent. She will have copies of her book, "Poetry and Painting" available on Saturday, and will donate proceeds to the OLAF drive. Many of her poems, like her paintings, deal with the sea or other aspects of nature.

CVPOA endorses Regional Park and Open Space District

BY PAT GRIFFITH

The board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association last week unanimously endorsed the proposed Monterey County Regional Park and Open Space District and urged CVPOA members to get behind the petition drive to get the measure on the November ballot.

Attorney Sean Flavin, who is representing several conservation groups and individuals sponsoring the proposal, asked the directors for help in passing petitions door-to-door in Carmel Valley. He explained it will be necessary to get the valid signatures of 5,000 registered voters living within the boundaries of the Monterey Peninsula College district to qualify the proposal for the ballot.

"If we had an army of people to pass petitions, we'd go out and solicit for CVPOA membership," remarked president George Sackman.

Rather than guarantee any set number of petition-passers, Sackman said he would urge members to volunteer for the task in the next general newsletter.

FIRE PROTECTION

The CVPOA directors also heard a report on the status of fire protection proposals for the mid-Valley by Stephen Thigpen. Thigpen, who recently named a small committee to study the problem, said his group is investigating three possibilities: annexation to Fire District 43, formation of an independent fire district, and annexation to the present Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

"District 43 just can't fit us in," Thigpen commented, "and trying for a separate contract with the State Division of Forestry really is not an acceptable plan, since we're still stuck with the distance problem."

However, Thigpen emphasized, the group is going to explore every possibility and then will present all information to residents of the mid-Valley for their comments and evaluation.

The CVPOA board asked Thigpen to head this fact-finding effort as a community service. Thigpen urged any resident in the area who has questions or suggestions should contact him or any other member of the committee -- Rich Wenzlik, Dr. Bruce Ryan, Roger Fulton, John Pomeroy, Russ Stolfi or Bill Brown.

Thigpen said that in preliminary discussion, the group had split 3 to 3 on whether to form an independent fire district or to try to annex to the fire department in the Village.

Costs and the tax base are the prime factors, Thigpen said, noting that the normal lead time needed to acquire a new fire engine is 18 months, and the County will terminate its contract with the State Division of Forestry in about 14 months, on July 1, 1972.

CVPOA director St. E.P. Tyner, chairman of Special District 43, told Thigpen he thought the mid-Valley area should plan to acquire two pieces of equipment, with four men on one truck and two on the other, in order to hold their insurance rates down.

Director John Dowdakin suggested that Thigpen contact State Forestry officials to see if they know of used fire equipment in good condition that might be purchased for the mid-Valley.

"I think there is apathy on this, no question about that," Thigpen sighed. "We're all used to the federal, state or local government bailing us out of our problems."

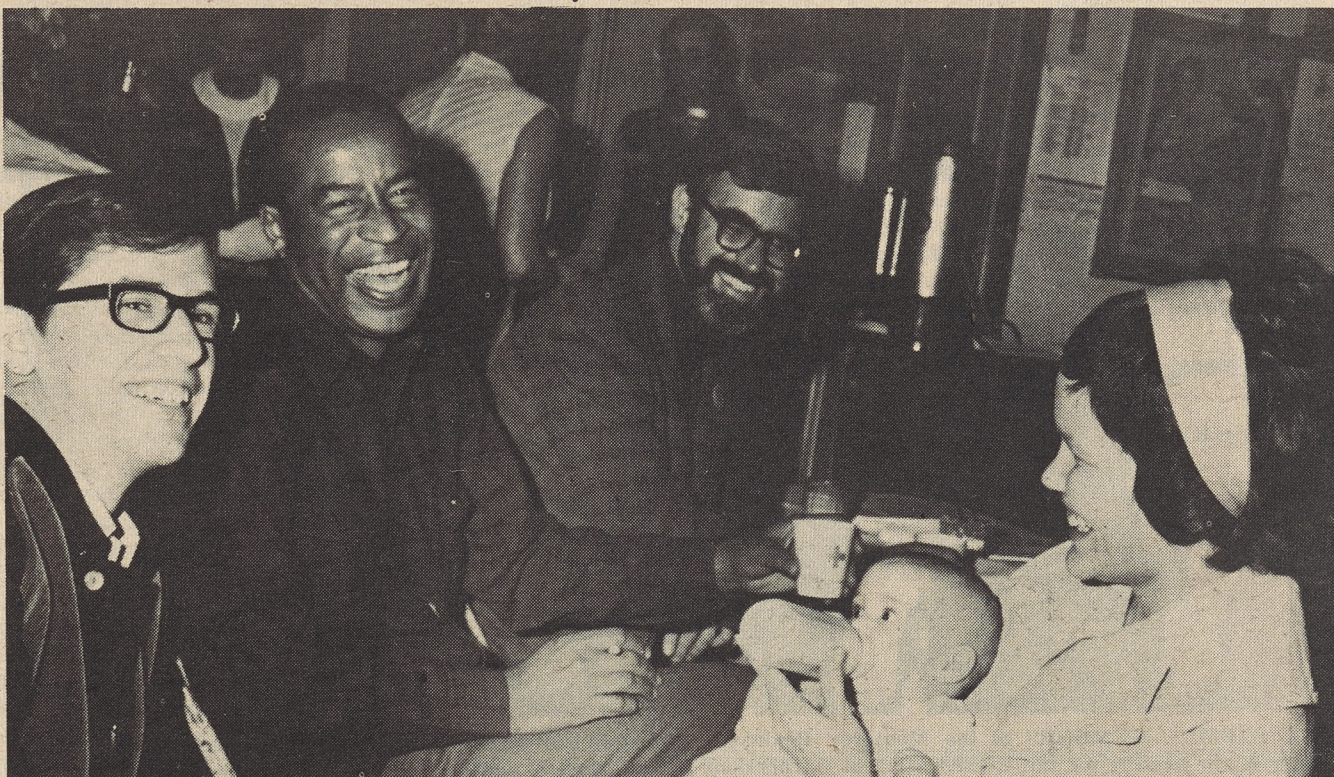

Reference was made several times to the disastrous fire at the home of Ed Lee on Robinson Canyon Road two weeks ago, which destroyed Lee's private office, along with everything stored in a combination garage, tack room and tool shed.

At the beginning of the meeting there were no minutes to read -- those had gone up in smoke. So had an engineering report on water and sewage in the Valley which someone else asked for later in the evening.

On other matters, the CVPOA directors:

OTHER MATTERS

1. Voted to send a letter to Supervisor Willard Branson pledging the CVPOA's continued support for any further efforts to get hillside zoning for Carmel Valley.

2. Decided to send a telegram to the County Planning Commission asking for a 30-day continuance on the Valley Ford proposal to give Carmel Valley residents more opportunity to learn about the commercial development.

3. Authorized Ed Lee to spend up to $100 to send letters to the Public Utilities Commission and all political representatives from this area outlining the history of wells along the Carmel River and the recent approval of a use permit, with several conditions, for a new well behind the Begonia Gardens. A report from Paul Zinke, water hydrologist and forester from the University of California, will be included with the letters. Zinke's report says the death of many trees along the river is probably due to the lowering of the water tables caused by increased well pumping.

The letter and report, with pictures, will also be sent to the national news media in an effort to get more widespread attention for the environmental problems along the Carmel River.

4. Discussed several duplexes which are proposed for commercially-zoned lots around the Village area, and decided that if they met the approval of the Upper Valley Advisory Committee, they would be okay as far as the CVPOA is concerned.

Many negative blood types in Carmel Valley

Negative is nice at the bloodmobile; donors with negative blood types, that is! Carmel Valley seems to have more than its share of residents with the negative blood factor, or else a higher percentage with a very positive desire to help their fellowman.

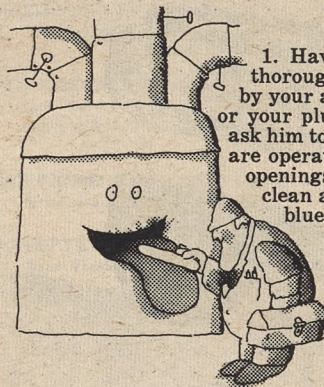

The Carmel Valley bloodmobile last May produced 20 donors with negative type out of a total of 87 who came to the Fire House to donate. The national average is 15 out of 100. AB negative, the rarest of all blood types, is found less than once in a hundred donations. Mrs. Shirley Huebner, who is this rare type, helps place Carmel Valley well above the average. Other donors who have negative types and who came to the last two bloodmobiles are:

Mrs. Ora R. Todd, Mrs. Martha A. Burnam, Mrs. Jeanne D. Klech, Dennis A. Gadsby, Mrs. Mary Ann C. Matthews, A.E. Mayfield, Ray N. Danielson, Mrs. Peggy H. Hicks, Mrs. Judith Ann Gayman, John Davis, Mrs. Beverly A. Arntzen, Mrs. Barbara Allard, William E. Ijams.

Miss Judy A. Higerson, Richard L. Hendrix, Paul E. Tocchet, Mrs. Constance J. Hood, Wallace W. LeValley, Miss Cappy J. McLeod, Mrs. Patricia Rowedder, Peter M. Lyon, Mrs. Dorothy Adam, Robert Dorsey and Mrs. Sandra L. Cisneros.

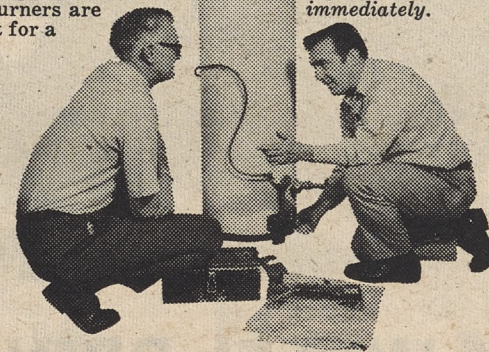

Blood donors of all types are being contacted to come to the bloodmobile which will be held at the Community Center, Ford Road, on May 20, from 3:00 to 6:30 p.m.

Household safety: four things you should do. And a couple you shouldn't.

1. Have your gas appliances thoroughly checked once a year by your appliance or furnace man or your plumber. While he's there ask him to make sure safety pilots are operating properly, air openings on burners are clean and set for a blue flame.

2. Get rid of any rusted or loose-fitting vent and flue pipes. Have them checked annually. If you ever should smell a gas leak call PG&E immediately.

3. Make sure that burners and controls on your gas furnace, wall or floor heater are clean at all times. And be sure to clean or replace dirty furnace filters periodically.

4. When you disconnect appliances, pull plug first from the outlet. Also make sure electric tools are properly grounded, and frayed or broken electric cords are replaced.

Never connect too many appliances to one outlet or circuit. And never let youngsters tamper with cords or outlets.

Don't place furniture or drapes over or close to any heater. Or let gas accumulate before lighting a gas pilot. Be sure that gas range burners are off completely when not in use.

And remember, too, that we're always ready to help. If you call for a PG&E service man to check-out any gas leak or gas service problem, ask him to show you where your gas pilots are located and how to go about relighting them. If repairs or parts are needed, call an appliance or furnace service man or your plumber.

4 WHEEL DRIVE $2495 Complete with Tax & License

Remember the first 4-wheel drive general purpose vehicles? They were compact, they were reliable and they were economical. Remember how you could work them all week on the ranch and then take them to the mountains for hunting on weekends?

But then, remember how 4WD vehicles began to grow into wallowing V-8 monsters? They lost their nimbleness, their economy and finally their personality.

We are proud to say that we have revived the spirit of the first 4-wheel drivers with the new Suzuki 4WD Brute. It has all the memorable attributes of its personable predecessors. Including their smaller size and small price.

BY MRS. B.C. FORRESTER

About 400 years ago, when Portugal was competing with Spain to capture the Asian spice trade, she founded the colony of Macao, adjoining the Chinese province of Kwangtung, on an estuary of the Canton River. This was to have served Portugal as a trading port. China confirmed Macao as a free port in 1887, and it was China's leading port until the rise of Hong Kong in the 19th Century.

Today the colony consists of Macao City with a population of 400,000 and the six square miles and little settlements on the three islets near the main island of Macao. Portuguese has always been the language of the colony, although 97 percent of the population is of Chinese origin and the other 3 percent from every race in the world.

Macao has no great seaport, no airport, no garrison for defense. Lisbon, the Portuguese capital, is at least 8000 miles away, and Macao receives no financial aid from Portugal. Alone on a Communist island Macao lives by expediency. Yet lives a life very much her own. The Portuguese of Macao are proud that their city boasts more Christian Churches than does Vatican City, and more gambling tables than in Monte Carlo. At the same time she gives asylum to refugees of Communist China, and trades freely with Community Canton or Capitalist Hong Kong. Fishing fleet or opium boats ply there under the very nooses of Red Chinese canon.

The children of the colony, there are 60,000 of them, are assured of an education, and daily invade adequate schools. I had a little girl of nine years of age, who came directly from Macao, was able to enroll in a school in Pelotas Brazil, and easily compete with girls of her age, speaking English, Portuguese and French excellently.

A motor bus makes two trips daily between Macao and Canton. But once on the Mainland a traveller becomes definitely aware that the Bamboo Curtain has dropped between Macao and the Communist regime in China.

The food in Macao is mostly in the Chinese tradition, although Portugal has contributed many fish recipes, soup, etc.

SHRIMPS WITH BAMBOO SHOOTS

- 4 tbsp. butter
- 2 cups shrimps, canned or fresh cooked
- 2 cups canned or fresh bamboo shoots, drained and sliced thin
- 1/2 cup canned or fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 cup canned water chestnuts, drained and sliced thin
- 1 onion sliced thin
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup cooked peas

Heat the butter in a skillet and saute the shrimps, bamboo shoots, mushrooms, water chestnuts and onion for about five minutes. Add salt and pepper and the boiling water. Cover and cook about five minutes longer. Just before serving add the cooked peas. Serves 4.

A CHINESE RECIPE FOR DUCK

- 3 cups diced cooked duck
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 8 water chestnuts diced
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 pound bamboo shoots, boiled and diced
- 8 mushrooms sliced
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 tbsps. soy sauce
- 1/2 cup shopped walnuts, fried lightly in oil

Cook diced duck in heated shortening, until lightly browned. Add chestnuts, bamboo shoots, mushrooms, sugar, salt and soy sauce. Cover and cook about 5 minutes. Stir in walnuts. If necessary, thicken mixture slightly with cornstarch. Serve with cooked rice. Serves 4 to 6.

BRAISED RICE AND ONIONS

- 1/4 cup dry, raw, white rice
- 4 tbsps. butter
- 4 cups thinly sliced yellow onions
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Drop the rice into 3 quarts of boiling salted water, bring rapidly back to boil, let boil uncovered for exactly 5 minutes. Drain immediately. Melt the butter in a baking dish, stir in the onions and salt to coat with butter, then stir in the rice. Cover and cook in a preheated oven 325 deg. Onion juices contain enough liquid to moisten the rice.

The dish is done when both rice and onions are tender and lightly golden. If served as a separate vegetable you might like to stir in grated cheese and salt and pepper. Serves 6.

Local Realtors observe National Realtor Week

"For Know-How in Real Estate -- See Your Realtor" is the theme of the 1971 observance of Realtor Week, May 23-29, Mrs. George (Sallie) Conn, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors announced. Members of the board join more than 94,000 Realtors across the nation to call public attention to their calling and the services they render.

A realtor is not just "any real estate man or woman," Mrs. Conn said. The term Realtor is an indicator of special qualifications because only a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and one of its more than 15,590 constituent boards can identify himself by that term. As such, he or she subscribes to a strict code of ethics and has access to board educational facilities at local, state and national level.

In a discussion of the code of ethics, Realtor Conn continued "that it was one of the first such codes adopted in the history of American business. Under its 30 articles, which cover all aspects of real estate transactions, Realtors pledge fair treatment and their total real estate knowledge to both parties of a contract, the buyer and the seller.

Home ownership is enjoyed by more than two-thirds of the families across the nation. This record of home ownership is matched by few other countries in the world, but it can become an even greater boon as it is extended to increasing numbers of low-income families through special programs and efforts. This goal is just one of several of those included in the broad Make America Better Program of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. One of the country's largest trade and professional associations, NAREB, was founded in 1908. Maintaining offices in Chicago and Washington, it furnishes Realtors with the latest information on Real Estate developments, mortgage conditions, economic trends, latest techniques and other business factors.

The Gwenn Graham Concours, set for Saturday, May 29 at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, is offering a gate prize to be given away the day of the show.

A 1926 open touring Peugeot has been donated to the Community Hospital Auxiliary by Dr. and Mrs. Lot D. Howard, Jr., of Pebble Beach.

This prestigious car show, sponsored by the Community Hospital Auxiliary and Del Monte Properties Co., is now in its 21st year, and enables car buffs and collectors to view more than 100 elegant and classic cars on the lawn in front of the Lodge.

The Peugeot, a unique replica of a bygone era, captured the imagination of the Howards in 1961 while they were residents of Marin County. Ten years, and barely 100 miles later, this amazing little 47 year old foreign motor car is still in good operating condition and is believed to be the only one of its kind.

The car has still been attracting attention, as it serves as a Del Monte Forest runabout for the Howard's two teenage daughters and older twin sons on visits from the San Francisco Bay Area.

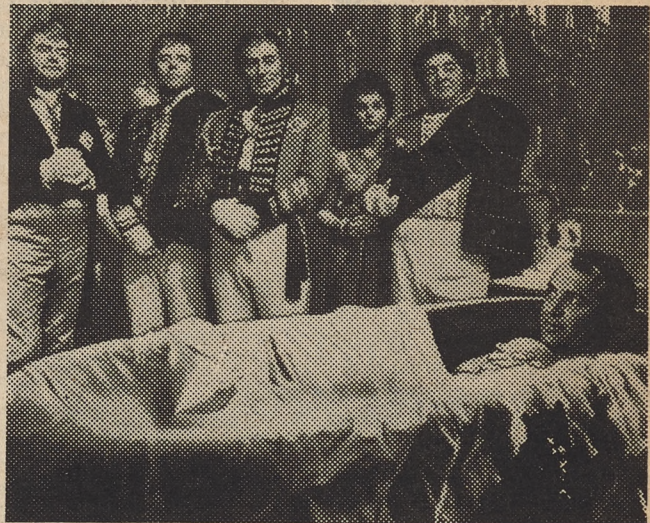

The original owner of the Peugeot, according to the donors, apparently had not realized back in 1961 when he decided to sell his prized possession in the states, that European car collectors had placed rarity values on old car makes, and could have created a greater sale for profit potential.

Dr. Howard, a nationally known orthopedic specialist in hand surgery, recently retired from his San Francisco practice. He had also been serving as a consultant at Letterman Army Hospital and the Presidio of San Francisco. He continues in retirement at Pebble Beach, to serve in a similar capacity with the Fort Ord Army Hospital.

Mrs. Howard is a member of the Hooker and Lent families, early San Franciscans.

All proceeds from ticket and poster sales benefit the Auxiliary. Tickets, which are $2.50 each, include a chance to win this antique automobile and include the gate fee into Del Monte Forest. Send check to: Concours Tickets, Box HH, Carmel, Calif. 93921.

ROD STEIGER (right) as Napoleon, in a scene from Paramount Pictures' "Waterloo," also starring Christopher Plummer, Jack Hawkins, Virginia McKenna, Dan O'Herlihy and Orson Welles as Louis XVIII. The Technicolor-Panavision epic of the historical battle, is playing now at the Steinbeck Theatre on Cannery Row in Monterey.

Annual school music festival at high school Thursday night

The Carmel Unified School District's annual music festival takes place Thursday night starting at 7:30 p.m. in the Carmel High School gymnasium. The program is free.

Instrumental and choral groups will perform from Carmelo, Tularcitos, River, Wood and Captain Cooper elementary schools, and from the middle and high schools.

More than 300 students will participate under the direction of district music directors, Sharon Jones, Gene Perrine, Henry Avila and John Farr.

A special attraction will be recorder performances by a select combined group of third, fourth and fifth grade recorder players and by Mrs. Paula Boys' River School second grade class.

The district recorder program began this year to introduce children to instruments at an early age.

"The festival gives the community a chance to see a cross-section of what goes on in the music programs of our schools," says John Farr, one of the directors for the evening.

'Young Adults for Action' program at Sunset Friday

Seaside's Young Adults for Action will present an evening of free entertainment at Sunset Auditorium on Friday to introduce residents of Carmel and Carmel Valley to the organization's wide range of community activities.

Families are invited to attend the multi-media program, which will begin at 8 p.m. Live entertainment will be provided by the Afrolettes drill team and the "Provisions." There will also be stereo recordings by Joan Baez and Mimi Farina made especially for this program.

A three-screen movie will demonstrate the scope of YAFA programs in the fields of health, recreation, poverty and crime prevention. Refreshments will be served after the show.

The evening of entertainment and information is being sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Committee of 200, a group of concerned citizens who have supported the work of the American Friends Service Committee. Its primary purpose is to educate the community at large on the problems of Seaside and to work with YAFA to solve those problems and to keep communications open between the black and white communities. The Committee of 200 is also working to raise funds for YAFA activities that are not covered by other sources.

Dr. Albert Baez of Carmel Valley is chairman of the group. Persons interested in learning more about the committee, or YAFA, may call Dorothy Durham at 659-2802.

Multi-media 'Embryo' at Sunset May 29

People interested in understanding contemporary art forms might find themselves "turned on" by the Multi-Media performance titled "Embryo" to be presented at Sunset Theatre in Carmel Saturday, May 29, at 8:15 p.m.

"Embryo" uses numerous projectors for flashing images of film, slides, and polarized light on three or more screens, and supplementing the resulting visual effects with music created "live" on the spot with a Moog Synthesizer and a piano and superimposes the element of the motions of modern dance as produced by a group of six dancers with material choreographed especially for this performance.

The program was conceived by a UCSC team including Keith Muscutt, lecturer and technician in dramatic art; Eric Regener, Director of UCSC's electronic music lab and teacher of music theory and composition; and Ruth Solomon, solo dancer with Jean Erdman Dance Theatre and member of UCSC dance faculty.

Local people from the Sunset staff and Monterey Peninsula College have seen the show, and their enthusiasm for it persuaded Sunset Theatre to bring it to Carmel, said Sunset manager Frank Riley.

Open Space District petition campaign starts

A petition campaign to create a Monterey Peninsula Regional Park and Open Space District got underway Monday night when a group of 40 interested persons met at Brey Hall, Carmel High School, to map plans for the campaign.

The group will seek 5,000 valid signatures for the creation of the district by mid-June in hopes of getting the issue on the ballot in time for the November general election.

Attorney Sean Flavin, chairman of the group, outlined the proposal and discussed the mechanics of securing petitions. Because many signatures later prove invalid, he said the group will seek 6,000 to 7,000 signatures.

The formation of the district would impose a 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation tax which, with present assessed valuation of property within the district, would raise approximately $270,000 a year for the acquisition of open space. This would mean a tax of $8 per year to the owner of a $30,000 home.

The district would follow the boundaries of the Monterey Peninsula College District, which covers the area from Marina on the north to a point below Anderson Landing on the coast south of Big Sur, and including most of the upper Carmel Valley.

Committees and subcommittees were set up at Monday's meeting and petition forms distributed. Those interested in helping with the petition drive or who want to sign petitions may call 372-7535 for further information.
